ENVT Consulting

Terms & Conditions

Scope

These terms cover visits to the ENVT Consulting website. A signed proposal or service agreement sets the obligations for a specific engagement.

Using the site

Read these conditions before sending an enquiry or using published resources. Ask our team about any condition that is unclear.

Electronic correspondence

When contacting us online, provide a working reply address. Keep a copy of proposals and written confirmations relevant to your project.

Intellectual property

Logos, illustrations, software and editorial material may carry separate rights. Obtain permission before commercial reuse unless a licence or the law permits it.

Third-party material

A supplier mentioned in an article remains responsible for its own offers. Its trademarks and terms belong to their respective holders.

Acceptable use

Use the contact form for genuine enquiries. Do not upload harmful content, disrupt access, harvest contact details or use site information for unsolicited campaigns.

Confidential submissions

Before sending an invention, source code or a confidential brief, agree with us in writing on confidentiality and permitted use.

Changes to access

Maintenance, security work or misuse may require us to limit access or withdraw a feature. Retain your own copies of material you submit.

Warranties and liability

The site gives general descriptions and may contain errors. Project warranties, remedies and any liability limit should be read in the applicable contract, subject to mandatory law.

Privacy and cookies

See the Privacy Statement for information submitted to our team and the Cookie Policy for settings stored by your browser.

Export and local restrictions

Before using technical material across borders, check the restrictions applicable to the material, destination and intended recipient.

Transfer of rights

Obtain written agreement before transferring obligations under a project contract to another party.

Breach of conditions

We may restrict abusive access, preserve relevant records and pursue remedies available under the applicable agreement or law.

Events outside the parties’ control

For a project affected by an external disruption, notify the other party promptly and refer to the contract for suspension, payment and rescheduling provisions.

Third-party claims

If material you submit gives rise to a third-party claim, notify our team. The applicable agreement and law determine responsibility and recoverable costs.

Exercise of rights

A delay in exercising a contractual right does not by itself amount to giving it up.

Language

The website is available in English and French. For a signed engagement, consult the language provision in the agreement.

Related documents

Read these terms alongside the privacy and cookie notices. Check the documents identified in your signed proposal for the terms of a purchase.

Revisions

Save the version relevant to your visit. You may contact ENVT Consulting about an earlier version or a change affecting a project.

Disputes and applicable law

For a contractual dispute, consult the governing-law and jurisdiction clauses of your agreement. Any mandatory protections applicable to your circumstances continue to apply.
